

Healthy Menu Choices Act, 2015

Application of the Act to Advertisements and Promotional Flyers

This document is intended to help food service premises owners and operators, public health stakeholders, and the general public understand, implement and enforce Ontario's menu labelling legislation as it may apply to advertisements and promotional flyers. This fact sheet should be used in conjunction with A Guide to Menu Labelling Requirements in Regulated Food Service Premises in Ontario.

The Healthy Menu Choices Act, 2015 and its accompanying regulation (O.Reg 50/16) ("menu labelling legislation") come into effect on January 1st, 2017 (with the exception of the revised contextual statement, which comes into effect January 1st, 2018). Owners and operators of regulated food service premises are required to comply with the menu labelling legislation as of January 1st, 2017.

Owners and operators of food service premises that are part of a chain with 20 or more locations in Ontario are required to display calorie information for every standard food and beverage item listed or depicted on their menus or on display.

What is a standard food item?

A "standard food item" is any restaurant-type food or drink item that:

- Is sold or offered for sale in servings that are standardized for portion and content
- is served or processed and prepared primarily in a regulated food service premises; and
- is intended for immediate consumption on the premises or elsewhere without further preparation by the consumer.

Where must calories be displayed?

Subsection 2(2) of the Healthy Menu Choices Act, 2015 states that calories are to be displayed on:

- each menu on which a standard food item is listed or depicted at the regulated food service premises; and
- where a standard food item is put on display at the regulated food service premises, on a label or tag identifying the standard food item.

Subsection 2(3) of the Act adds that:

- where a regulated food service premises lists or depicts a standard food item on a menu that is distributed or available outside the regulated food service premises, calories are to be displayed on that menu.

What is the definition of a “menu”?

Subsection 3(1) of the regulation defines “menu” as “any document or other written means of communicating information that lists standard food items offered for sale by a regulated food service premise”. A menu includes but is not limited to:

- Paper Menus;
- Electronic Menus (e.g. menus on tablets, self-order kiosks);
- Menu Boards;
- Drive-through Menus
- Online Menus/Applications;
- Advertisements, other than a billboard, radio or television advertisements, and
- Promotional Flyers.

Advertisements or Promotional Flyers Inside a Regulated Food Premises

Section 3(1) of O. Reg. 50/16 includes advertisements in the definition of a menu.

In store advertisements and promotional flyers are considered menus if they list or depict standard food items offered for sale, regardless of whether or not they include a price.

Subsection 2(2) of the Healthy Menu Choices Act, 2015 requires calories to be posted on any menu where standard food items are listed or depicted. This applies to, but is not limited to, signs, posters, table toppers, and promotional flyers.

Example #1: Displaying Calories on an In-store Advertisement (item is depicted)

Example #2: Displaying Calories on an In-store Advertisement (no price listed)

Advertisements Outside a Regulated Food Premises

Per section 3(1) of the regulation, advertisements and promotional flyers that list standard food items for sale are considered menus for the purposes of the legislation.

However, the regulation adds an exemption that online menus, menu applications, advertisements, and promotional flyers distributed or available outside of a regulated food premises are exempt from posting calories as long as they satisfy either of the following criteria:

1. They do not list prices for standard food items; or
2. They do not list standard food items that a person can order for delivery or takeaway ordering and do not provide a method to place an order (e.g., phone number or website).

Therefore, an advertisement or promotional flyer that is available outside the premises (e.g. a poster outside the store) would not require calorie posting if either the price is not listed or if a method to order, such as a website or phone number, is not listed. Similarly, a standard coupon mailer or grocery store flyer that has to be taken into the store to order a product and does not provide a method to order take out, would not be required to post calories.

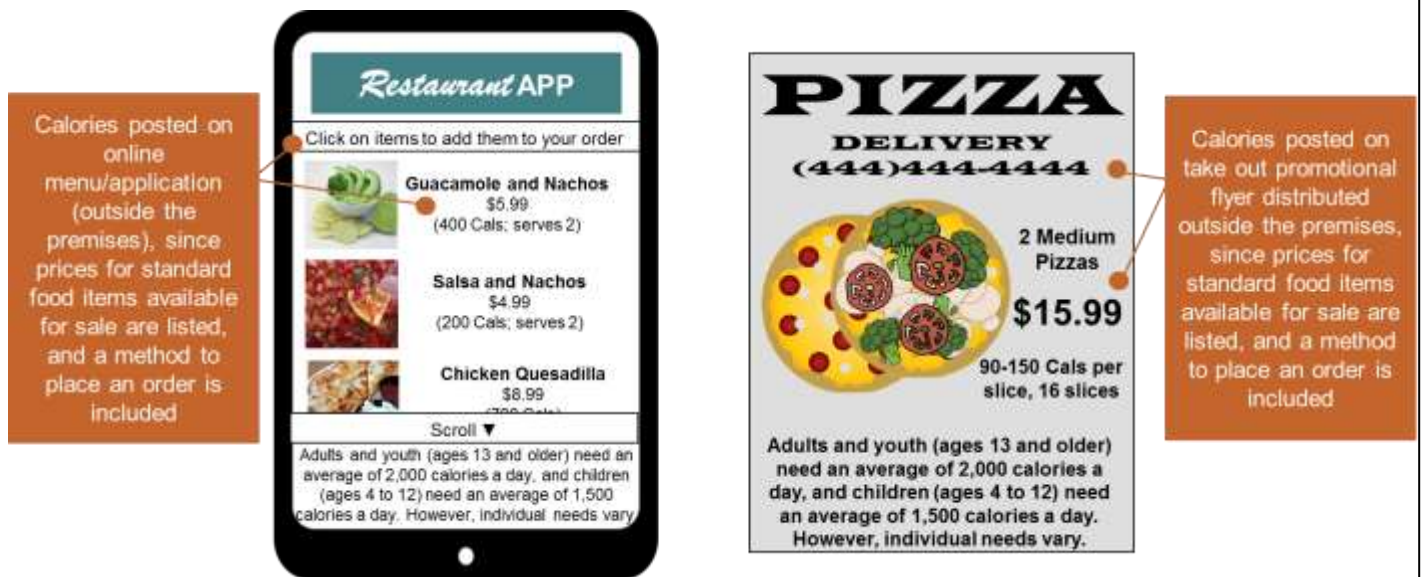

An online menu or promotional flyer available or distributed outside the premises that lists both the prices for standard food items available for sale and provides a method to order would require calorie posting.

Billboard, radio and television advertisements are exempted from the requirements of the menu labelling legislation. .

Example #3: Exempted Out-of-store Advertisements

Example #4: Displaying Calories on Out-of-store Advertisements (not exempted)

Contextual Statement

A contextual statement, in English or in French, must be displayed.

As of January 1st, 2018, the following contextual statement must be displayed:

“Adults and youth (ages 13 and older) need an average of 2,000 calories a day, and children (ages 4 to 12) need an average of 1,500 calories a day. However, individual needs vary.”

Between January 1st, 2017 and December 31st, 2017, food service premises can choose to post the contextual statement above, or post the contextual statement as stated below:

“The average adult requires approximately 2,000 to 2,400 calories per day; however, individual calorie needs may vary.”

The contextual statement must be displayed on all menus, subject to limited exemptions, in close proximity to the standard food items listed on the menu, in the same font and format, and at least the same size and prominence as the name or price of the standard food items listed on the menu (e.g. same colour, boldness, style, etc.).

In-store advertisements are exempt from posting the contextual statement. In addition, out-of-store advertisements and promotional flyers that are distributed or made available outside of the regulated food service premises that do not list prices for standard food items or do not provide a method to place an order are also exempt from posting the contextual statement.
